

Addiction, prescriptions and prevention

In this session we shared that...

- Every 15 minutes a baby is born suffering from opioid withdrawal
- 16% of Americans with behavioral health disorders receive over half of all opioids.

...and change can be hard, but one small action can make all the difference.

- Medication-assisted treatment (MAT) is the most effective way to combat addiction, but is underutilized.
- Additional factors like behavioral health and pregnancy have serious consequences with opioid addiction.

CONSIDER THIS

- Your opioid solution should address proactive patient care, before they even receive their first fill, as well as supporting others while in treatment.
- Looking at the whole person, including their behavior and health history, is imperative to maintain careful medication access.
